Arts & Culture: Core to KC Region

The arts and culture in the Kansas City metropolitan area are an intrinsic part of our vibrant community. The industry sustains our city's quality of life, beauty and vitality, but also powers economic growth, jobs and tourism.

Americans for the Arts (AFTA) has released its Arts & Economic Prosperity® 5 Study, which features national, as well as regional data, including 2015 data from five counties in the Kansas City metro area. The numbers make a compelling case for how arts and culture fuel our community's growth and prosperity.

Industry Powers Economic Growth

$276.1MTotal 2015 economic impact of arts & culture in KC metro*$179.5M*Spending by Arts & Cultural Organizations

Organizations support our economy by employing people locally, purchasing goods and services from local establishments and by attracting tourists.

$96.6MSpending by Audiences
Up 39%

Audiences bolster the local economy with event-related spending at restaurants, hotels, retail stores, parking garages, and more.

Local & State Government Revenue
$24.6M

Arts & culture generate millions in government revenue, proving that government funding for the industry is not a “frill,” but rather an investment that brings a positive return.

Industry Generates Jobs & Income

If the arts & culture industry were a single entity, it would rank as a top private sector employer, hiring artists and performers, but also other staff such as administrators and educators.

Top Private Sector Employers¹:

Household Income

The arts and culture industry generates a combined $253.6M in household income that in turn goes back into the local economy for purchases, including cars, homes, and more.

Industry Drives Cultural Tourism

Our city is buzzing with tourists attending arts and cultural events, which means that, while they're here, they spend money on food, transportation, souvenirs, and more. In fact, tourists spend twice as much as locals on event-related expenses.

Study Size for National & Regional Data

The national Arts & Economic Prosperity 5 Study represents detailed economic findings from 341 communities and regions representing 50 states and the District of Columbia. The study excludes spending by individual artists and the for-profit arts and entertainment sector. KC Metro data was collected from 133 of the 309 eligible nonprofit arts & cultural organizations in Clay, Jackson, Platte, Johnson and Wyandotte counties, representing a 43% participation rate.
